900 more orphans flown out of Vietnam

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Two chartered jumbo jets and two C141 military transport planes roared out of Saigon today carrying nearly 900 Vietnamese orphans to new lives with adoptive parents in the United States.

As the planes left with a their loads of diapers and baby food and wailing, wriggling children, investigators sifted the wreckage and hunted bodies a mile and a half from the airport in the wreckage of a U.S. Air Force C5A Galaxy cargo plane which crashed Friday with 243 orphans aboard. The loss of up to 200 lives made it the second worst air tragedy in history.

Forty of the youngsters leaving Saturday were survivors of the Galaxy crash.

The first plane to leave carried 31 orphans headed for California and a welcome by President Ford. The plane landed at Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines for a stopover before continuing to San Francisco.

The largest of the flights carried 409 children.

The jumbo jet flight, with 60 adults aboard as escorts, was a private charter by Holt Children's Service, and was not a part of the orphan evacuation ordered Wednesday night by Ford.

The plane was scheduled to stop at Guam, Honolulu, Seattle, Chicago and New York. The Catholic Relief Service said it was selecting American-fathered children from among 250 orphans in its care for priority passage aboard a commercial plane.

Meanwhile, the search resumed this morning for more victims of the U.S. Air Force orphan airlift plane that crashed near Saigon Friday with 319 persons aboard. It was feared that more than 140 Vietnamese children and more than 50 adults on the C5A Galaxy perished.

The Viet Cong's spokesman in Saigon, Col. Vo Dong Giang, said today news of the crash was "heart-rending" but he charged that the airlift of orphans was part of a "forced evacuation" of population.

In Sydney, Australia, 212 Vietnamese orphans arrived from Saigon by way of Bangkok and were met by Australian adoptive parents. Ten of them were ill, two critically. They clutched airline magazines, coloring books and empty air sickness bags as souvenirs of the trip.

The children, who included about 80 infants, were receiving medical and quarantine checks at a government installation. Early next week they will meet foster parents assigned before the trip.

Australia agreed to take an unlimited number of Vietnamese orphans.

Viet policy review for President Ford

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) President Ford is engaged in a series of Vietnam policy review conferences with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and a four-star Army general just back from Vietnam.

Ford, who held a midnight meeting with Kissinger Thursday night, set up the first of two meetings today for shortly after daybreak. Gen. Frederick C. Weyand, the Army chief of staff, who made a Vietnam fact-finding tour on the President's behalf, was to join the talks.

The early hour of the meeting apparently was arranged so Ford could get in a golf game before rejoining Kissinger and Weyand for an afternoon session.

Press Secretary Ron Nessen, who promised Kissinger would meet with reporters after the morning conference, said he expected the President to visit one of numerous country clubs in the area.

Reporters sought a meeting with Weyand, but Nessen said he did not expect the general to be available for questions.

At a news conference Thursday in San Diego, Ford acknowledged the military developments in South Vietnam were serious but said he thought there was "an opportunity to salvage the situation."

When Kissinger arrived in Palm Springs Thursday night, he did not embrace Ford's optimistic assessment immediately, saying he wanted to hear first from Weyand before making a judgment.

There was some question among newsmen whether Ford and Weyand were seeing eye-to-eye, although Nessen sought to discount any notion of conflict.

Before leaving Saigon, the general described the withdrawal of South Vietnamese forces as a "sound strategic action." Ford, on the other hand, had termed it "improper and unnecessary" and leading to a chaotic situation. Nessen said:

"It was a sound strategic decision, but the President thinks that tactically it was improperly carried out."

Besides reviewing Vietnam policy, Kissinger said he also was discussing the search for a Middle East peace with the President.

Meeting in San Francisco Friday with the governors of Hawaii and eight western states, Ford said Kissinger made a "maximum effort" to achieve a new Egyptian-Israeli agreement and that "we were disappointed" that it did not materialize.

Ford predicted the Middle East problem would now go to Geneva and produce "a tough negotiation."

In a more hopeful vein, Ford told the governors, "I see no serious deterioration of détente" with the Soviet Union. He said he expects to sign a new strategic arms limitation agreement with the Soviets.

The Ford-Kissinger-Weyand discussion of Vietnam was one prelude to a major foreign policy address that the President will deliver Thursday at 9 p.m. EDT to a joint session of Congress. Ford's "State of the World" address will range far beyond Vietnam, however, and touch on all major foreign policy areas.

Surprise appeal by Mrs. Willard

Mrs. Judith Willard, who submitted her letter of resignation to the Dixon School Board on Wednesday, has filed a surprise appeal of the ruling in which she has been declared in conflict of interest on the board because her husband, Merlin Willard, is a teacher at Dixon High School.

In her letter of resignation Wednesday she stated she was not appealing the ruling because the Illinois Education Association had dropped its support in the form of legal counsel.

The appeal move Friday at 4:30 p.m., which just made the deadline for appealing the ruling, was signed by Mrs. Willard.

She commented, after the filing, the appeal would give time for a study of the entire situation. She emphasized the IEA had no part in the appeal.

An IEA spokesman has been quoted as saying that organization did not favor appealing the ruling because if Judge Martin D. Hill's findings were upheld in appeals court it could influence hundreds of cases in the state where spouses of teachers are school board members.

The appeal will be heard in the Second District Appellate Court in Elgin.

Arable land plentiful, says envoy

By ROBERT H. NELLIS

"Latin America cultivates only 20 per cent of potential arable land and any shortage of food in the Western Hemisphere is not due to a land shortage."

"Fifty million acres of land could be brought into production by 1980," was the prediction given by Rodolfo Silva, ambassador to the United States from the Republic of Costa Rica, who was the opening keynote speaker at the Sauk Valley World Affairs Conference being held Friday and today at Emerald Hill.

Silva said for this increase in food production to occur in Latin America land improvement and irrigation facilities are needed as well as capital credit outlay.

Internally, the ambassador reported, land reform tenancy is needed to improve idle acres and the quality of rural life must be upgraded to keep farmer and farm workers "with the land."

Also, the diplomat pointed out, "Agriculture workers must receive a greater value of the goods they produce."

"Farmers in the developing countries need price supports so they can get a better share of the growing income produced."

The Costa Rican would have been applauded many times had he been speaking at a cattlemen's association dinner.

He observed cattle are selling for 50 to 55 cents a pound and charged that the price should be a minimum of 75 cents in order for the producers to make any income.

Silva called for a supported price of 75 cents for cattle.

Costa Rica, which is about 35 per cent the size of Illinois, has a population of about 2 million compared to this state's almost 12 million. It is bordered on the north by Nicaragua, on the east by the Caribbean Sea, on the east by Panama and on the west by the Pacific Ocean.

Coffee, bananas, sugar and beef are the country's principal exports.

Costa Rican beef exported to the United States constitutes about .3 per cent of America's total consumption, according to Silva.

He was critical of the Senate passed 90-day moratorium of beef importation into the U.S.

"Can you know what it means to Costa Rica to have a major portion of our beef exports cut off for 90 days?" he asked.

Silva revealed the European Common Market has cut off imports of Costa Rican beef and that Japan has closed its market to Latin American beef.

"The beef industry in my country is facing a catastrophe," declared the ambassador.

In 1955 coffee was bringing Costa Rican growers $60 per hundred pounds, the diplomat said, and now, he reported, it is selling for $50.

"This means fewer dollars, which are worth less, and yet the price you pay for coffee has doubled in the supermarket," asserted the speaker.

"This is frustrating to developing countries," Silva said.

The Costa Rican reported sugar was selling for two cents a pound in 1964 and jumped to 60 cents last year. He revealed it costs five cents a pound to produce sugar.

"For a long time the United States paid a subsidy for Latin American sugar that went into international trade, of five cents a pound," Silva mentioned.

Twenty per cent of people in Latin America suffer from malnutrition, which lowers the vitality of the working persons so they are not able to labor for eight to ten hours a day and causes high absenteeism in the work force, reported the ambassador.

"Children are growing up undernourished, which is causing them to have brain damage which will cripple them for the rest of their lives, and they will be part of a generation which it can be predicted will never produce at full force," lamented the diplomat.

All the Latin countries have ways to cope with internal problems but their continued development relies on being able to engage in world trade and how they are treated by the big nations as trading partners is something over which they have no control, observed Silva.

Now 40 per cent of Latin America is agriculture, but this industry receives only 15 per cent of the gross national product, continued the ambassador. Citing what Latin American needs is unfettered trade rather than aid, Silva reported, from 1950 to 1973 only 4 per cent of international credit went to developing nations and 96 per cent of it went to developed countries.

An example of fettered trade recited by the diplomat was bananas. The price of the fruit has not changed for 25 years and so Costa Rica decided to put a tariff of two cents a pound on bananas, and "This set off a banana war."

The United States east coast longshoremen refused to unload Costa Rican bananas, the company threatened to lay off workers if the government did not relax its tariff, and after a year Costa Rica got only a half-cent increase in the price of the fruit.

"But in the supermarket the price of bananas increased eight cents a pound," charged Silva.

"Latin America needs liberalized trade policies by the big nations and free access to the markets of the world," was his final plea.

He confided there is a need in Latin America to moderate the growth of population, but "it is necessary that we promote food production whether or not we do anything about population growth."

"And the only way we can do this is through international trade credits coming to us from the products we export."

"To attain this we need fair treatment in world trade," concluded the Costa Rican ambassador to the United States.

Blast rips Standard Oil Co. building in Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A terrorist bomb ripped the 21st floor of a Standard Oil Co. of California office building Friday night while President Ford spoke at a hotel five blocks away, police said. There were no reports of injuries.

Ford was finishing a speech to a group of industrial and economic leaders when the bomb went off, but authorities said there was no indication the blast was related to Ford's day-long visit here.

The President left the hotel about 15 minutes after the explosion en route to the airport where he departed to his Easter vacation retreat at Palm Springs, Calif.

"It looked like a very powerful device," said Police Capt. Ed Laherty. "There was extensive damage to the 21st floor. It buckled walls."

A spokesman for Standard Oil, Dale Basye, said the explosive had been placed in a women's restroom.

Laherty said a preliminary search of several other floors failed to turn up additional explosives.

The San Francisco Police Department was alerted to the impending explosion when an unidentified woman called the switchboard about 9 p.m. PDT. She said a terrorist group calling itself the Red Guerrilla Family placed the device in the building. The caller did not mention Ford, police said.

Rodolfo Silva, left, ambassador to the United States from Costa Rica, was the keynote speaker at the Friday-night session of the Sauk Valley World Affairs Conference being held Friday and today at Emerald Hill. At his left is George Cole, president of Sauk Valley College, who introduced the speaker, and J. Terry Iverson of the University of Illinois, director of the conference, is at the rear. New 'weapon' against crime: Us

By TOM TIEDE
WASHINGTON (NEA)— If Pattie Hearst had been wanted by police officers of early America, the possibility of finding her would not be as difficult as now. By necessity and legal permission, the citizens of the day were expected to be part of the law enforcement process. Thus it was not uncommon, say, for a farmer to march in a desperado at the point of a pitchfork.

The concept of team spirit in these matters has, however, long since died. The growing government has assumed virtually all control in matters of domestic security, the private citizen is left with almost no responsibility. Actually, the citizen is increasingly condemned for those hints of self defense he does retain. Vigilantism is a dirty word, private gun ownership is vile to some; not infrequently will men and women strike back against criminals only to be charged with assault themselves.

No doubt the arguments for centralized law enforcement are good. No advanced society has found adequate alternatives. A farmer with a rifle in the 1700s may have been the only hope for law and order within hundreds of miles. But now there are 40,000 police agencies in the country, plus 15 million laws to back them up. Each are the complexities of the system including its lapover into the political intelligence wastelands, that the farmer and his plinker are, in most instances, merely a drag on sophistication. Albet, the sophistication America has achieved with centralized security is not doing the job. The nation has more police than ever before (2.1 public officers for every 1,000 people and three times as many private security guards), and is spending more money than ever for their effectiveness (New York City budgets some $6 million annually just to protect its schools)— but for what? Not security.

The U.S. crime rate has doubled in the last five years and some studies indicate there may be as many as 30 million crimes committed yearly now. The war on crime has been lost; only two of 10 known offenses are currently being cleared by arrests.

It is undeniable that one reason for the defeat is that the good fellows in the battle are fighting with legally imposed handicaps. Big-city police, for example, no longer having the right of sudden search, are often powerless to prevent crimes they know will happen. Yet does this mean cops should be allowed free rope? Of course not.

Excess in the hands of police is as deadly as it is in the hands of thugs— one recalls with anger the Dallas cop who arrested and handcuffed a 12-year-old boy and then shot him dead during interrogation.

So what we have here, or at least have had in recent times, is a situation where private citizens give more and more of the domestic defense responsibility to public agencies increasingly unable to carry out the mandate. Only the outlaws have profited, the cops and the citizens have fallen into mutual despair. Surely it's clear the apparatus is in need of restructuring.

The suggestion here is that a major part of the mechanical work should concern the reintroduction of Mr. America into the law enforcement system. Police by themselves are woefully outnumbered by the enemy and reinforcements are vital. No vigilantes, please, only good citizens willing to assist in, not substitute for, the law. The need is for new thinking in the ways the public can be effective, as an army of dogooders, and for a reformation of the idea that we can purchase justice and security merely with hired guns.

I have no illusion here that the suggestion will be soon adopted, the concept of citizen action in this nation being somewhat unhappily dated. Nor do I think that without reform in other areas— courts and jails— the suggestion would do much good even if implemented. But there it is anyway. The waters are getting rough. If we don't sail together shall we all sink separately?

Voice of the people

To the Editor:

Legislation has been introduced in Congress which, if it becomes law, will place an additional "tax" on cable television viewing. This tax will be in the form of copyright payments to the owners of the programs you watch on the cable. In other words, if you watch programs on the cable, you will be discriminated against. Your neighbor who may receive the same program on his rooftop antenna would not have to pay this "tax," only you, the cable subscriber, would be penalized!

Presently the copyright owner indirectly is paid for his program by the sponsor of his broadcast program. This payment is ultimately passed on to the consumer in the form of the price paid for the product purchased. The same copyright owner would be extracting a second fee from the cable operator— again, ultimately charged to you, the consumer, in the form of higher rates for cable television service. For the public to be forced to pay for two "tickets" to the same performance is absolutely unfair; and for the copyright owners to unjustly enrich themselves at the expense of the public is fundamentally immoral. There are 28 companies that own almost 100 per cent of the programs you view on television. These are the people and corporations that would benefit from the tax.

We are asking all our subscribers to help us keep the cost of cable television down by helping us defeat the proposed copyright "tax." This can be done by writing your Congressman and Senators to inform them of your feelings on this matter. But act now before Congress acts. As you well know, once a bill is passed, it is very difficult to get it repealed.

In all sincerity,
Dixon Cable TV Inc.

To the Editor:

In a recent newsletter, the U.S. Department of Agriculture advised that loans for farm storage facilities are available at an interest rate of 9.375 per cent, to be repaid in four installments over a five-year period. Now, I understand that this interest rate has been reduced. However, the irony of the U.S. government lending U.S. farmers a few measly dollars at an interest rate of 9 per cent, 6 per cent, or whatever, is that so-called "under-developed" nations can borrow millions from our government through the International Development Association at an interest rate of three-quarters to one per cent. Instead of repaying the loan in four installments over five years as we would be required to do, loans from I.D.A. are extended over fifty years— with a 20-year grace period on capital payments and a 40-year payout after that. Sen. Charles Percy wrote in a letter to me of Dec. 20, 1974: "I.D.A. loans are grants with the interest paid to cover administrative costs." Congressman H. R. Gross put it more bluntly: "These are not loans because the terms are so soft, they will never be repaid. They are disguised gifts and it is insulting to the intelligence to describe them otherwise." Sen. Byrd opposed the funding of the I.D.A. by declaring: "The federal government will be borrowing money at 9 per cent interest and giving that money to the World Bank, which in turn will loan it to other countries at 1 per cent interest." You may like to know that in August 1974 our Congress approved legislation authorizing $1.5 billion of our tax dollars for I.D.A.

Does it make sense for a nation operating on a deficit budget to give billions away to other countries? Why not keep the foreign aid money home and apply it against our astronomical and ever-increasing national debt?

Last October President Ford explained that to fight inflation we should all save as much as possible, conserve energy, form car pools, shop wisely, plant a garden, recycle scrap, etc. If individuals must cut their expenditures and learn to live within their income, is it too much to expect their federal government to do the same? Now is the time for fiscal responsibility. Isn't it also about time we let our politicians know it?

Respectfully,
Janet M. Beck

Higher interest hypo the economy?

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA)— The depression is costing us $200 billion this year in underproduction and underemployment. This averages out at $4,000 per family, though the load is astronomically uneven.

So at first blush it comes as a relief that a reasonable anti-recession proposal has finally come out of the White House. Which seems to put President Ford one ahead of Congress.

But there's a catch. Mr. Ford has recommended that the gut provision of his plan be delayed five years, then reviewed, and perhaps put into effect six months after that.

I refer to the President's effort to allow banks, savings and loan associations and other financial institutions to raise the interest rates they pay depositors.

The proposal may not seem revolutionary. But I refer doubters to experiments in Korea and Vietnam several years back.

The concept was first tried out in Seoul. With inflation decreasing the currency value at well over 20 per cent a year, few saw much sense in putting money in the banks. As a gamble, the government— talked into the plan by American advisers— allowed banks to raise interest paid depositors to something like 20 to 30 per cent. The results were dramatic; deposits increased sharply. Capital-starved Korean industry was able to secure the funds needed for expansion.

Observers give this one program a good deal of the credit for South Korea's industrial boom which, in the end, made that country independent of U.S. economic aid.

A similar experiment was later attempted in South Vietnam. The results were equally successful— until the stepup in the war made conditions universally bad. In Vietnam the plan funneled needed money into farm improvement. A similar program here could have striking effects in homebuilding and consumer credit.

Almost everyone seems to agree that consumer spending eases depressions; hence the proposed tax cut. And home building, spurred by the easier credit normally available in the midst of a slump, has frequently led the way out of past recessions.

Unfortunately, the current depression has not been typical. Mortgage money has not been easy. Though there are faint signs of coming improvement, the housing industry remains in the doldrums.

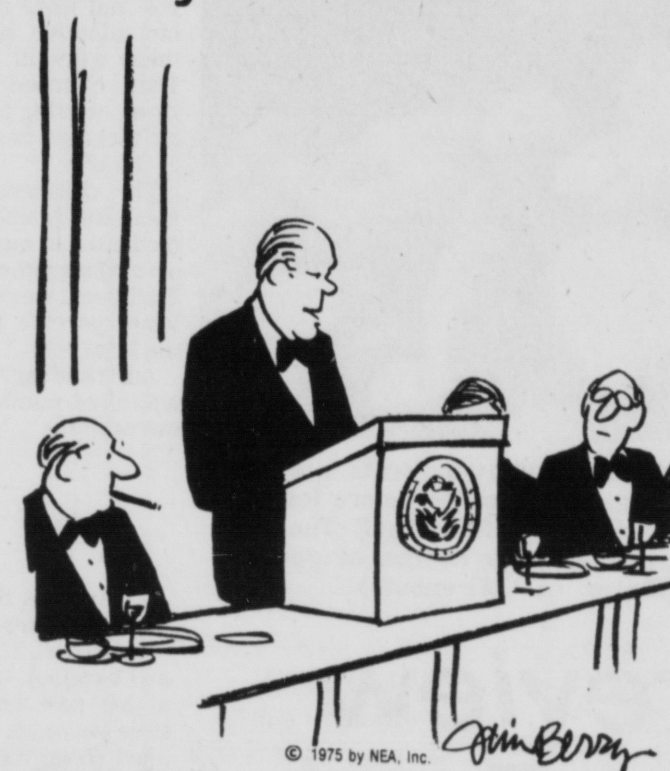

A major problem has been that interest paid depositors has been so low that much money was going into higher-income opportunities. A sizable amount of the funds deposited in banks which normally might have gone into mortgages was diverted to other ventures. With inflation growing apace, banks have not wanted to tie up their funds in long-term fixed-interest loans.

Numbers of our major commercial banking firms have preferred making large loans of doubtful security to financially shaky foreign governments and institutions— and risky quick-turnover loans to favored borrowers.

The predilection for overseas loans is in part responsible for the just-announced unfavorable balance of payment reports now depressing the financial community.

Now higher rates for depositors would not cure these problems. But another Ford proposal might. It would expand the number of financial institutions which could make housing loans of varied types, expand mortgage guarantees, provide tax incentives and increase the mortgage loaning powers of most financial institutions in ways calculated to make home mortgages more attractive.

Cancer research worth the cost?

WASHINGTON (LENS)— How to get value for money from cancer research?

Short of an all-out cure, nothing will end the political debate. The sums that are being spent are enormous— $600 million in the present financial year— and the fear of getting the disease universal. One million Americans have it already.

Recently Dr. James Watson, who is listened to because he helped to discover the molecular structure of life's genetic material, derided the national cancer program as a fraud. The public was being deluded into believing that progress in curing cancer has been greater than it is, he said. Dr. Watson, who does not mind being considered arrogant or curt, said that the government's newly created cancer research centers around the country are institutions that are "starting out lousy and will stay lousy."

Immediately the head of the National Cancer Institute, Dr.

Frank Rauscher, answered back. He believes that there has been dramatic improvement in the rate of survival of sufferers from cancers of the colon, breast, lung and other organs.

But Dr. Rauscher had to add the proviso that scientists had never promised Congress that they would "find some magic bullet overnight."

Yet in truth what else did Congress expect when it passed a law in 1971 with the wishful name of the national conquest of cancer act? That legislation doubled the annual amounts being spent on cancer research and President Nixon made the comparison, which is so misleading, between conquering "the dread disease" and landing on the moon and splitting the atom.

Even at that time there were enough critics to point out that this was an oversimple approach to understanding a complex biological phenomenon, with dozens of different manifestations. They succeeded in preventing the separation of the NCI from its parent organization, the National Institutes of Health. Nonetheless, since the 1971 crash program began, the NCI, rich with funds, has grown until it supports about a third of all the research done by NIH.

The cancer program will continue at full speed; last summer Congress extended it for three more years. There are signs of modest success— one cancer patient out of three now survives five years; in 1950 it was one out of four.

New combinations of chemotherapy, surgery and radiation are keeping many cancer patients alive.

But cancer is on the increase because of the aging of the population and the persistence of carcinogens (like cigarettes) in the environment.

Now a new presidential committee is going to look at the whole $2.5-billion worth of medical research supported by federal funds. The result could be a renewed flow of funds for basic research.

By DON OAKLEY

The U.S. Supreme Court has a habit of handing down vague, sweeping decisions, and then leaving it up to the states and lesser jurisdictions to try to live with the consequences.

The result is that the same or similar cases keep coming back to the court involving questions which the court, in its Olympian detachment, deigned not to answer the first time around.

A prime example is the court's last guidelines on obscenity, which seemed to indicate that local standards, not national ones, were to be the governing factors. Until, that is, on appeal the court ruled that a local community should not have applied local standards, which happened in a case that arose shortly afterward.

Last January the court decreed that high school students may not be suspended for disciplinary infractions without at least a "rudimentary hearing." But it did not spell out the procedures required for long-term suspensions or outright expulsions.

Before school administrators had time to absorb this decision, the court ruled in another case that students may sue school board members who are guilty of intentional or malicious "or otherwise inexcusable" deprivations of the students' constitutional rights.

While acknowledging the existence of "good faith" immunity for school authorities, the court held that such immunity did not shield an official from liability for damages "if he knew or reasonably should have known that the action he took within his sphere of official responsibility would violate the constitutional rights of the students affected."

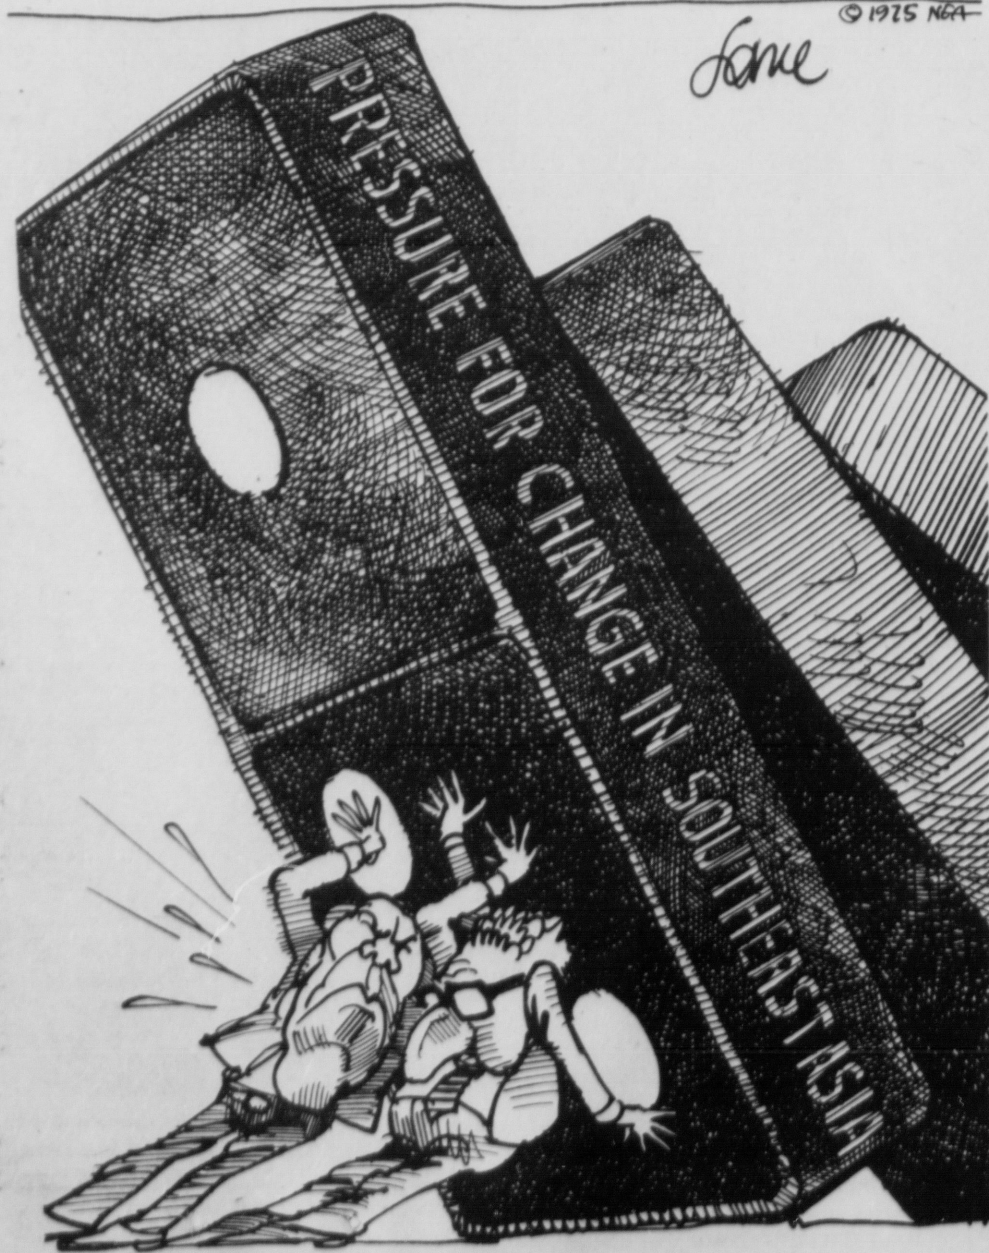

The upshot is that while some educators and civil rights spokesmen have hailed the Supreme Court's venture into this particular thicket, others warn that trying to figure out what the court means by "reasonable" knowledge of constitutional rights will only cause a rash of new court cases.

Others predict that school board members will hesitate to serve unless they have a lawyer at their side at all times. One school board member, in Sacramento, Calif., has resigned because liability insurance against punitive damages is not available to board members in that state.

So as the situation stands now, students presumably have the right to hear charges and evidence against them, at least in serious matters, and school officials had best take care. But do these new student rights extend to the right to cross-examine their accusers?

In yet another case involving this question, the Supreme Court declined to say. It sent the issue back to the lower court level, where it may safely be guessed it won't remain for very long.

The Doctor says:

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm writing about my husband because he had the gout a few years ago and now he's been having it quite often and he's taking pills for it.

He won't let up on his drinking and he doesn't watch what he is eating, either. I want to know what effects this would have on him when he's getting these attacks so often?

DEAR READER — You may be sure it is not doing him any good. With a better appreciation of gout and the development of new medicines, diet is not as important as it once was, but it is still an important consideration.

Alcohol in repeated quantities or in sudden drinking bouts, like a party, can cause a sudden attack of painful gout. Anyone with gout should certainly restrict their drinking to a very moderate amount.

The most important aspect of the diet is not to eat too much. Food binges can cause a sudden attack. In general it is better for the gouty person to eliminate excess weight gradually and keep it off. The diet should be structured to help prevent fatty-cholesterol diet with a limitation on calories to correct or prevent obesity.

The most frequent serious complication of gout today is disease of the arteries leading commonly to heart attacks. You can't afford to ignore this.

I must caution against any crash diet or sudden loss of weight. I have seen more than one patient with a red, hot and swollen toe from a gout attack caused by overzealous dieting. This can occur even in people who are not really gouty patients.

Finally, anyone who has gout should be followed regularly by his physician. Your doctor can provide medicine that will pretty well eliminate gouty attacks and prevent most of the complications of gout. But the patient has to cooperate. That means in the diet, exercise and living habits area as well as taking the medicine and having regular checkups.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read your column saying one shouldn't eat raw meat. I'm a meat cutter and I got brucellosis at my place of employment. While all meat is supposed to be government inspected, I got this disease while handling and preparing the meat for sale. I think it would be much more dangerous to consume this meat.

I had a 105-degree temperature with the attack. After the antibodies began to build up the doctors could diagnose my condition. It took three weeks. I felt obliged to write to you to warn people of the dangers of eating any kind of raw meat, including beef. It took me a year to recuperate. It's a miracle I'm alive today.

DEAR READER — Handling raw meat is a common way to spread the brucellosis germ that causes the fever and illness you had.

Of course, the meat has to be infected to begin with, and about five per cent of cattle in the United States still have brucellosis. Butchers and slaughterhouse workers are exposed to this problem and are the group in the population most likely to get this disease from handling meat. Cooking the meat eliminates this danger.

Saigon residents ignore propaganda

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The sound of gunfire, exploding grenades and artillery echoed through the streets of Saigon, but no one took any notice.

"It's only government propaganda," a Vietnamese reassured a nervous foreigner and pointed to loudspeakers tied to lp posts in Lam Don Square. The speakers blare continuous exhortations for the population to resist the Communists and boast with sound effects of government forces heroically defending Hue and Da Nang.

Everyone knows the army hasn't fought; that Hue, Da Nang and a dozen other cities have been lost, and that the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese are pushing closer to the capital.

"We have nowhere to go now," said Mai-linh, a beautiful young bar girl, with a shrug. "Where can we go? I am frightened, but what can I do? I have bought rice and dried fish and when the VC come I will lock the doors and wait."

Although there have been some signs of fright and flight, most of Saigon's 3½ million people seem to be facing up to the inevitable.

Their greatest fear seems not to be the North Vietnamese and Viet Communist forces less than 50 miles away. It's that armed, defeated, embittered government troops will run amok in the city. Law and order may disintegrate as it did in Hue, Da Nang and Nha Trang. Government officials and army officers may desert, leaving anarchy behind them.

At the moment there is little to show on the surface that Saigon is mortally threatened. But rice is short, and going up in price. Tea is hard to get. So is coffee. Tea and coffee came from the Central Highlands town of Ban Me Thuot, which fell more than two weeks ago. Avocados, once a plentiful delicacy from Dalat, are now hard to find. The highway to Dalat was cut several weeks ago.

The bakeries are still turning out French bread. Rather ordinary French wine is still available, but the quantity is decreasing. The North Vietnamese and not Saigon's gourrets are now enjoying Nha Trang's famous lobsters.

It is still possible to eat well in the French style at such restaurants as Ramuntcho's. But the waiters hustle you through your meal to get the bill paid by 9.30 p. m.; curfew is at 10 p. m.

The open-air terrace at the Continental Palace Hotel, better known as the Continental Shelf, remains a favorite sun-down drinking place.

The nightly army of pimps, prostitutes, beggars, urchins, crippled war veterans and newspaper vendors still prowls the sidewalk alongside.

But there are signs that the war is coming closer.

New bunkers and pillboxes are being constructed on street corners, notably near the presidential palace.

Foresight, Determination . . .

In 1971 Jim Burke and the Dixon City Council decided to extend sewer and water lines to and beyond the Tollway.

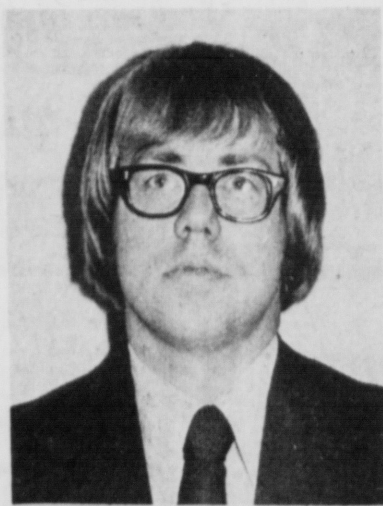

Some people criticized this action, however, today Dixon benefits from an industrial park and two fine industries in the Donaldson Co. and HWI. The program was funded wisely and completed with existing monies without raising taxes. As a result further employment possibilities were created for citizens of Dixon.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE D-624: Barbara and Denise are high school seniors. During class discussion recently, several of the other students began criticizing old people.

"I hate to visit my grandmother," one coed began. "For she forgets whatever I tell her within a couple of minutes."

"Then she keeps pestering me by asking the same question, over and over."

Another girl added a somewhat similar criticism of the elderly.

"My grandfather keeps telling us the same stories about his childhood, though we've heard them 100 times before. So it is boring to sit there and listen again and again to the same old stuff!"

Golden Rule

But Barbara and Denise immediately defended the elderly, many of whom are so out of touch with social affairs that they confuse the days of the week.

"You shouldn't be thinking of yourself," Barbara replied.

"For you will be old and in the way, too, when you reach the age of your grandmother!"

"So you should apply the Golden Rule and try to brighten the lives of such elderly folks."

"Listen to their stories, even if you have heard them previously. And ask them about their childhood, for then they may tell you about some new experiences you haven't heard before."

"Besides, it is good for their minds to have young people talk to them and revive their memories of the past."

Barbara's viewpoint is the correct one, and indicates a more extroverted, unselfish outlook.

The other girls who griped about repetitious elderly folks, were merely thinking of their own pleasures and were not trying to be helpful to those oldsters.

"But, Dr. Crane," teen-agers may protest, "doesn't it grow tiresome to sit and listen to the same old stories?"

Often that is true, but you young folks may be able to leave in an hour, yet the oldsters are chained to their wheel chairs, beds or rocking chairs all day long.

So apply that Golden Rule and act interested, just to perk up the dreary day of those grandparents and Nursing Home patients.

Mrs. Crane's father lived to be almost 98. And I have listened literally 1,000 times to him tell about the time he and his son caught 128 bluegills in a single day.

"Did I ever tell you about the time Jay and I had the biggest haul of fish we ever caught?" he'd inquire.

"When was that?" I'd reply with eager enthusiasm.

Then he'd launch into the story about how they caught 60 in the morning; then went back to the same spot after lunch and hooked 68 more.

And as he relived that interesting event, he perked up mentally, for recalling exciting experiences of our youth will wake up our brain and thus raise our IQ score.

So tactfully compliment your elderly relatives and friends by asking them questions, especially about the past.

Thus, you glean history from those who lived through the events now recorded in your history books!

And never affront older persons or deflate their ego!

For an elderly person can die faster from a fractured ego than from a fractured hip!

People in the news

BOSTON (AP) — President Ford will deliver a speech at Old North Church on April 18, the 200th anniversary of Paul Revere's ride, according to White House sources.

Unconfirmed reports also came from the White House Thursday that Ford will appear in Concord, N.H., the same day for a northern New England economic conference.

At the famed Boston church, a candlelight ceremony will commemorate the posting of lanterns in the church steeple to signal that the British were coming in a march on Lexington and Concord.

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — King Khaled has been given a clean bill of health by two Cleveland Clinic doctors who said they examined the new ruler in Saudi Arabia last weekend.

Khaled had a heart attack in 1970 when he was crown prince, and he underwent open-heart surgery at Cleveland Clinic in 1972 to repair damaged heart muscle, the hospital said.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
You'll be a little pushed out of shape when your impulsive, generous gesture is not fully appreciated. Don't give in order to get.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Another will try to use you today to make himself look good in front of an audience. Let him know you're not a patsy.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Something you'll say unthinkingly will wound a sensitive friend. Apologize promptly so it doesn't leave a scar.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Be careful not to impose too selfishly upon the kindness of one who has already gone out of his way for you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Don't ask advice from a close companion today unless you're prepared for a candid reply. What you'd hear would likely displease you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Pay particular attention to common sense health practices today. Be moderate physically, and in partaking of the good things of life.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Cupid will hit you with a few blunt arrows today. If you're too possessive or demanding of your loved one.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Don't rule the roost with too heavy a hand today. Friction can be avoided if you aren't too impatient or temperamental.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
You're likely to do more talking and thinking about what should be done at this time instead of doing it. Get off your duff. Act.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Yesterday you were a wise and prudent shopper. Not so today. Be careful. You could buy a pig in a poke.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
Be understanding and tolerant of one weaker than yourself today. Encouraging words and a pat on the back will be deeply appreciated.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Don't be too flirtatious or coy today. It could backfire if someone you were just putting on a bit takes you seriously.

Women take to 'noonlighting'

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Donna Maloney finds that she can add to her family's inflation-ravaged income by noonlighting — working lunchtimes at a local hamburger restaurant.

Mrs. Maloney, 34, a mother of two, is one of a growing number of women, many with children, who slip off while the kids are at school to part-time jobs at nearby drive-ins.

"Today everyone in the family has to work just to survive," said one clerk at a Hardee's restaurant.

A spokesman for McDonald's System Inc. at the drive-in restaurant chain's headquarters in Oak Brook, Ill., said a large percentage of its employees are part-time housewives.

"We recently ran a series of ads saying to the mom that she could be a hero to her kids — working part-time at McDonald's and still be there to greet them when they get home from school," the spokesman said.

Jim Mack, supervisor at the Springfield McDonald's restaurant where Mrs. Maloney works, said more housewives are applying for part-time lunch work because of the economic situation.

"This is the most we've had," said Mack, who has managed the restaurant for four years.

Mack said his restaurant pays $2.30 an hour for part-time help. For Mrs. Maloney this means taking home an extra $23 or $24 a week, and "I'm not gone that many hours," she said.

Some of the extra money is being used for an orthodontist's bill and for her 13-year-old daughter's planned trip to Washington this June, Mrs. Maloney said.

"All of these things take money," she said.

Diane Peterson, 23, doesn't have any children, but said boredom and the thought of extra money encouraged her to take a $30-a-week lunchtime job at a drive-in.

"It pays for the groceries," she said.

John McCoy, the manager of a Red Barn restaurant in Springfield, said he has hired a number of part-time housewives in recent months to help with the noon-hour rush.

"They seem to be the best workers," McCoy said.

Food for Americans

A 'plum' perfect dessert

Plums and biscuit mix make quick dessert.

By AILEEN CLAIRE
Fresh plums and pineapple tidbits combine for a delicious fruit cobbler. Soft shortcake biscuits top the sweetened fruit mixture and the whole dessert is quick since the biscuits are from a mix. Serve this Plum Bubble warm or cold, with whipped cream or ice cream.

Another fresh fruit treat that will get family and guests to the breakfast table on time is an Overnight French Cheese Toast.

Serve warm or cold, with whipped cream or ice cream if desired. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

OVERNIGHT FRENCH CHEESE TOAST

1/2 pound jack cheese or other mild-flavored cheese
1/2 pound Cheddar cheese
8 slices white bread
4 eggs
1 cup half-and-half
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup plum jelly
1/2 cup water
1/2 teaspoon allspice
6 fresh plums, halved and pitted

Preheat oven to 450 degrees. Cut cheese in 1/4 inch slices. In well-buttered glass loaf pan

FRESH PLUM BUBBLE

3 cups quartered fresh plums
1 can (1-2/3 cups) pineapple tidbits, drained
1 1/2 cups sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

1 recipe shortcake dough (using 2 cups buttermilk biscuit mix - follow package directions) OR 1 package (8 ounces) flaky buttermilk biscuits

Melted butter or margarine
2 tablespoons cinnamon sugar

Combine plums and pineapple tidbits in 10-inch oven proof skillet or baking dish. Mix sugar and cornstarch together and stir into fruit mixture. Dot with butter and bake at 400 degrees 15 minutes. Remove from oven and top with 6 to 8 biscuits cut into 2 1/2-inch circles. Brush with melted butter and sprinkle with cinnamon-sugar. Continue baking at 400 degrees 25 to 30 minutes longer.

Mrs. Henley is honored at shower

Mrs. Kenneth Henley was guest of honor at a recent baby shower in the Robert Pierce home, 223 Lincoln Way, when co-hostesses were Miss Theresa Pierce and Miss Barbara Willwerth.

Appropriate games provided, entertainment, and the gift table was centered by a paper star.

Refreshments included a white cake trimmed with pink and blue flowers, baby shoes and a stork, and guests included Miss Linda Deadmond, Miss Sylvia Pierce, Miss Jill Franklin, Miss Kay Buckingham, Miss Pamela Sitter, Miss Jeana Wakeley, Mrs. Ann Weidel and Mrs. Mary Willwerth.

(9x5x3 inches or larger) arrange a layer of bread slices. Top with a layer of both cheeses. Repeat layers, ending with bread. Beat eggs; stir in cream, salt and pepper. Pour liquids over cheese and bread. Bake 30 minutes or until puffy and golden brown. Meanwhile, in a saucepan, combine jelly, water, allspice and plums. Cover and simmer 10 minutes, or until plums are tender. Refrigerate sauce and loaf until serving time. To serve: cut loaf into thick slices. Arrange slices on broiler pan and heat through - just until browning and bubbling begins. Serve at once, topped with warm plum sauce. Makes 6 servings.

Polly's Pointers

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY - Last week I bought a 9x12-foot rug that is full of folds and wrinkles that have not smoothed out. I would like to know how to get rid of them. My daughter suggested putting it in a big rug dryer at the laundromat but I think the rug would have to be wet to do this. What do you think? - CLEO

DEAR CLEO - I really cannot make a suggestion because you did not say what your rug was made of - cotton, nylon, wool or whatever. I would certainly call the firm from which the rug was purchased. If this produces nothing consult the attendant at the laundromat who can doubtless give you some good advice about putting it in the dryer. Have you tried holding a steam iron over, not on, it to see if the steam would help? Weight it down until dry. The nap would have to be brushed up afterwards. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - My Pet Peeve is with those service station attendants who grasp the windshield wipers when cleaning the windshield. Each finger leaves a wiper blade bent and then contact cannot be made with the glass when it is turned on so one is left with unwiped streaks. - MRS. E.D.

DEAR POLLY - My Pet Peeve is with those tactless people who ask us single women, "Why didn't you get married?" They seem to insinuate that there is something radically wrong with us. Many of us have several college degrees and have done much to make the world a little better. My pet answer is: "I would rather be single than to wish I were." - MARJORIE added to the water if needed. Wash off any remaining scraps of paper and glue with steel wool and a cleaning solution. Rinse with clear water and allow to dry thoroughly. Apply sizing.

I have found the following to be the easiest way for an amateur to apply fabric to a wall: I use wheat wallpaper paste, mixed a bit thicker than the directions on the package, and put paste on the wall for one strip at a time. Then start at the top and smooth fabric on with a clean, soft cloth, working from the center out. Do not cut burlap the exact length but allow for some shrinkage. Pull away at the bottom and trim. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - I just made a discovery I want to share with others since it is a savings in electricity. One of my outside lights burned out. The only bulb I had to use for replacement was a 15 watt. I put it in and found it gives plenty of light to see by so I will never use stronger bulbs outside. - NAOMI

DEAR POLLY - All stores do not have current newspaper advertising available at their checkout counters. When taking advantage of specials listed in ads I take the ENTIRE ad, not for just the items I am purchasing, to the store. If the clerk accidentally or even intentionally rings up the wrong amount you can whip out the paper and have proof in black and white. Saves time and misunderstanding on both sides. - MRS. C. W.

DEAR POLLY - I was at our local hospital for X rays and found the waiting room very short on magazines. The next time I went to the hospital I took a few magazines and gave them to a volunteer worker who thanked me sincerely. I know thousands read this column so would like to remind them not to throw their magazines away but to drop them off at a local hospital or other such places like nursing homes and they would be greatly appreciated. I pass many of the Pointers on to others who have not read them. - MRS. W. S.

REVERSE STRATEGY
Reverse frosting is excellent for gray hair. Instead of lightening strands of hair as in streaking the process darkens them a little. These new shades can be matched to your original hair colors. The process also gives overbleached hair a rest because the darker tones can be put back gently.

'AIR RING' EARRINGS
There are new earrings that are so light in weight that they are called "air rings." They come in loop shapes and beautiful translucent colors. They will be a summer fashion joy.

Dear Ann

by Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I am a newlywed who is too embarrassed to discuss my problem with anyone who knows me. I hope you will reply and not mention the town I live in.

Problem: My husband's toenails are so long and sharp that I spend hours darning his new socks. He wears them only twice or three times and the toenails cut right through.

At night he scratches my legs to pieces. I used to wear pantyhose to bed but he ruined so many pairs by snagging them that I quit. Will you please tell me how to get my guy to trim his darned toenails? He says they don't bother HIM and that I should get off his back. - Clawed In Tennessee

Dear Clawed: You can catch more flies with honey than with vinegar, dear. Buy a little pedicure set and offer to take care of your husband's toenails personally. He will find the sudsy water, foot massage and gentle clipping irresistible. Goodbye bleeding ankles and torn socks!

Dear Ann Landers: My grandchildren range from 3 to 8 years of age. This last holiday was such a hassle I'm still not over it. I bought the three children the same gift with slight differences, such as color and size. They fought the whole day because all three wanted the same gift.

I told my daughter-in-law her children should be taught that a gift is a gift and they should be grateful for whatever they receive. She informed me in blunt terms, and I quote, "If you can't select a different gift for each child, based on age, sex and personality, then please give them all the same thing and prevent a lot of fighting."

Please help us ignorant, misguided grandparents everywhere. Tell us if gifts presented on the same day should be similar, different or identical? - Bewildered In Memphis

Dear Bea: Generally speaking, the age, sex and interest of each child should be considered when selecting a gift. Your grandchildren, however, seem extremely competitive - so, unless you can get some clue from their mom as to what each might like, it would be safer to buy them all the same gift and keep the blood off the rugs.

Dear Ann Landers: I know you must be sick to death by this time of the all-boy all-girl family mail, but I do hope you will find room for just one more.

My husband and I had three beautiful daughters. They are almost grown up now, but I remember so well a certain next-door neighbor who used to yell over the fence - "Hey, when are you going to have a boy?" (She was disgustingly smug about having had two of each.)

After a third time I shouted back, "When the girls grow up and get married we'll have the pleasure of three fine sons and someone else will have had the job of raising them. Sons always go over to the wife's family, you know."

That was the last time I heard a peep out of her. I hope you will print this letter so "Mother Of A Harem" will see it. Everyone needs a comeback with a sting in it now and then. This could be hers. - Wouldn't Trade 'em For The World

Dear Wouldn't Trade: Thanks for a lovely what-for. This should net you a new friend.

Confidential to Disappointed In Her And Feeling Betrayed
Why did you expect her to respect the confidence? You didn't when you passed on that choice bit of gossip. Let this be a lesson to you. Keep your lip zipped and you won't have to worry about being "betrayed."

Wa-tan-ye Club dinner-meeting

A dinner-meeting for the Dixon Wa-tan-ye Service Club has been arranged for 7 p.m. Wednesday in Eddie's Supper Club, Grand Detour, and members unable to attend are asked to notify Miss Mary Williford, 288-1576.

THIS COAT, DESIGNED BY Pertegax of Spain, combines navy blue lambskin leather and acrylic knit. The bolero-type waist has a knit body and sleeves, and is outlined in leather at the waist, front, cuffs and yoke to match the boot-top-length side-buttoned A-line skirt.

Nachusa Unit meeting with Mrs. Meyer

The Nachusa Homemakers Extension Unit met Tuesday with Mrs. William Meyer and her co-hostess Mrs. Edward Shippert.

Mrs. Alice Hoban, chairman, led a business meeting when 19 unit members answered roll call by describing herbs they used and final plans for a "Hometown Tour" scheduled for May 6 were announced by Mrs. Charles Nusbaum and Mrs. Robert Wolf. Members will meet at 10:30 a.m. to tour the Nachusa House followed by a luncheon in the Post House. A tour of KSB Hospital and Clayton's Apple Tree Tea Room will follow the luncheon.

Present officers were re-elected for another term, and it was announced that members of the unit would serve as hostesses at a June meeting in the Farm Bureau Auditorium, Ambony.

Mrs. William Weed presented a major lesson on "When Emergency, Crisis or Death Strikes," and Mrs. Edward Johnson gave a minor lesson on "Herbs I Like to Use."

La Leche League meeting is Wednesday

The Dixon area La Leche League will meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday with Mrs. Mark Lubbs, 206 W. Humphrey St., Rock Falls.

Mrs. Robert Bloemker, Dixon, will lead a discussion on "Nutrition and Weaning," and she will also give a demonstration on making baby food.

Following the meeting, refreshments will be served during a social hour by Mrs. James Anderson, Sterling.

Area mothers and mothers-to-be are welcome to attend any League meeting. Membership is not required for them to take advantage of the assistance by Le Leche for nursing mothers. Books and information collected by the group for a lending library are displayed at each session.

Plans were made for an approaching bake sale at the Northland Mall, Sterling, and additional information concerning the League and its activities may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Bloemker, 284-6124.

Hats for all moods

IF YOU LIKE HATS, wear them, no matter how dressy or casual the situation. Cornelia Sharpe, whose high-fashion modeling came before her starring role in "The Reincarnation of Peter Proud," chose a hat wardrobe from these varied styles, clockwise from top left: A giant pattern-weave straw, accented with the new lower crown and gently dripping front brim, an ideal tailored-occasion look. Featherweight crocheted straw cap, accented with bright grosgrain banding at the crown. Flip brim "pull down" of pastel glazed cotton, for moments of super casual fun. Clean, cool look (and it hides the hair) comes in a draped kerchief of polka-dot cotton.

When a man takes over the house

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Today there are bound to be more and more dislocations of the American home scene caused directly or indirectly by the fuel crisis. Among the most drastic is the loss of jobs. In today's pattern of living, with a high percentage of married women job holders, this poses a special problem.

We are interested in the maintenance of the family's food supply despite the job situation. In many homes, crisis unemployment will require a turnabout in assigned family work.

Let's look at one case: husband, 49, airline captain; wife, 38, school teacher; son 16, daughter 18, wife's mother 58.

In a massive layoff, the husband's job as captain is gone. So consequently is the mother-in-law's job as stand-in for her daughter. She lives next door but arrives at her daughter's apartment every day at 3 p.m. greeting the homecoming children, buying groceries and preparing the evening meal. She was paid regular commercial rates for this service.

So only the wife's check remains to support the entire family. (The mother-in-law immediately accepted an offer similar to what she was doing and at the same rate.)

Therefore, it became the duty of the pilot-father-husband to take over and run the household.

It would not be enough for him to cook eggs all the time or to serve luncheon meats every time someone shouted "chow." He faces many problems. Should he try to duplicate some of his mother-in-law's most popular dinners or resort to TV dinners?

The price of meat cuts will startle him. But if he wants his family to get meat he needs to learn cuts that give the most for the money. He will find "specials" provide good meat at a lower price.

If he doesn't know how to cook these specials, he can turn to a good recipe for instruction. Also, he can estimate how much leftover meat there will be and plan in advance how to use it later.

A rule of meat buying he should consider is, "beef is the best buy," according to many master butchers. They advise buying it in a solid piece, such as a roast, not in smaller cuts which usually are more expensive.

The nutritional balance of the food a family eats is vastly important. It means eating some of every type of food each day that is available in the markets - fruits and vegetables (fresh, canned or frozen) meat - poultry - eggs - fish - cheese - cereal products and milk. However, most substitute cooks, and often mothers, think of milk as an excellent food. Children usually love it.

Humanities session Monday

The second in a series of three National Humanities Series sessions at Sauk Valley College will be held at 7 p.m., on Monday, in Room 2K2 at the college.

James Barber, director of community services at the college, said the general topic of the series is "Changing Values in the Twentieth Century — An Age of Uncertainty." The program is being directed by Dr. Philip D. Jones, Professor of History at Bradley University.

Specific subjects for the Monday evening meeting include: 1) the concept of success; 2) censorship of salacious material; and 3) capital punishment.

Any one interested in these topics may make arrangements to attend the program free of charge by contacting the office of community services, 288-5511, ext. 212.

Barber said that in addition to the on-campus meeting Monday evening, Dr. Jones is prepared to conduct similar discussions on Tuesday, April 8, with meetings of individual groups, organizations, or clubs located throughout the college district. Further information about these off-campus activities can also be secured from the community services office.

Two youths are arrested in vandalism probe

OREGON—Two youths were arrested by Ogle County Sheriff's Police Friday following the investigation of a vandalism.

David L. Hawkins, 19, Monroe Center, and a 14-year-old juvenile were arrested for criminal damage to property after allegedly breaking a large plate-glass window at Monroe Center Post Office Thursday night. Hawkins posted bond and was released. The juvenile appeared in court and was later taken to Winnebago County Detention Home.

Play Tuesday at St. Mary's

Shoot outs, card games, funerals, and a worried town are some of the ingredients in the St. Mary's Grade School production "The Death and Life of Sneaky Fitch" at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the school gymnasium.

Viewers will be able to meet people like Mervyn Vale, the town's busy undertaker; Rev. Blackwood, the town preacher; the wives with all the town's gossip, Doc Burch, the town's lovable physician who is a bit too fond of the bottle; Rackham, the fastest gun in the West; Sheriff Oglesby, the town's law man who gets pushed around a little; Maroon, the town's sexy dance hall girl who kills Sneaky, the Singer, the calm bystander who almost tells the story and sings the songs, and finally, but certainly not the least, the town's yellow-bellied, lily-livered crawling skunk, bum and miserable polecat Sneaky Fitch, the town's problem, and there is also dance hall girls and cowboys.

Chili supper

COMPTON—The "Brothers of the Brush" Compton centennial chapter "Bearded Badman" from WestBrooklyn are sponsoring a chili supper on Sunday at St. Mary's Hall, West Brooklyn, from 5 to 8 p.m. Tickets are adults $1.50, children 6-12 $1. Ham sandwiches will also be available.

Rochelle Hospital
Admitted: April 4—William Glover, Lee; Daniel Saenz, Rochelle.

Discharged: Miss Kay Webb, Miss Ethel Foster, Miss Marjorie Rewerts, Mrs. Frank Tracey, Rochelle.

Deaths, Funerals

Beatrice E. Diehl

MT. MORRIS—Beatrice E. Diehl, 67, 426 S. Ogle, was found dead in her home Friday of natural causes.

She was born Jan. 4, 1908, in Cherry Grove Township, Carroll County, the daughter of Elmer H. and Etta Bolinger Gaul. She married Lloyd Diehl in November of 1951. He preceded her in death.

She came to Mt. Morris from Dixon in 1951. She was a member of Church of the Brethren and served on the board of directors of Oakwood Cemetery in Mt. Morris.

Survivors include three sons, Robert D. Francis, Rock Falls; Donald J. Francis, Sterling; and Carl J. Francis, Mt. Morris; three brothers, Maynard Gaul, Lanark; Marlin Gaul, Lanark; and Kenneth Gaul, Polo; two sisters, Mrs. Harry (LaVonne) Anderson, Mt. Morris, and Mrs. Dwight (Barbara) Flickinger, Elburn; seven grandchildren, and six great-grandchildren.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Monday at Finch Funeral Chapel, Mt. Morris, with the Rev. Willis Thomas, Leaf River, officiating. Burial will be at Oakwood Cemetery, Mt. Morris.

Visitation will be from 7 to 9 p.m. Sunday. A memorial fund is being established.

Mrs. Louise Lyons

Mrs. Louise Lyons, 80, 1405 W. Second St., died at her home Friday night following a long illness.

She was born April 3, 1895, in Dixon, the daughter of Henry and Sophie Krug Bott. She is survived by two sons, Donald Holderman of Geneseo and Fred "Bud" Holderman of Santa Barbara, Calif., plus six grandchildren.

Also surviving is her stepmother, Mrs. Ottilie Bott of Bellflower, Calif. Mrs. Lyons was a member of Immanuel Lutheran Church. Funeral arrangements are incomplete and will be announced later by Preston Funeral Home.

Rochelle driver is arrested

OREGON—Ogle County Sheriff's Police arrested Raymond G. Rodriguez, 19, Rochelle, Friday night on two charges.

Rodriguez was charged with no valid driver's license and indirect civil contempt of court after authorities stopped his car south of Lindenwood. He was being held in jail this morning and will appear in court at a later time.

Traffic stop leads to arrest

OREGON—Gregory Trout, 26, Rockford, was arrested Friday following a routine traffic stop by Ogle County Sheriff's Police.

Trout was charged with driving while his license was suspended after being stopped by patrolling deputies in Monroe Center. He has posted bond and will appear in court April 11.

Theft charge is filed

An Oregon man was arrested Friday by Dixon Police on a charge of theft at Grant City.

Robert Stacey, 35, was charged after he allegedly took a plastic bubble shield for his motorcycle helmet. According to reports, Stacey had asked a salesman to help him and after the salesman put the shield on Stacey's helmet he then reportedly left the store without paying for the shield.

Stacey has posted bond and will appear in court at a later time.

Vows end to state fair irregularities

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A repetition of the irregularities at the 1974 state fair cited by a grand jury report will not occur at this year's state fair, says Paul King, the head of the Illinois State Fair.

A Sangamon County grand jury submitted a report Friday after a two-month study of contract awards and the administration of the 1974 fair.

The grand jury recommended that Atty. Gen. William Scott sue to revoke contracts worth $1 million awarded to two Springfield contractors, the Robert A. Williams Construction Co. and H. W. Buecker Plumbing, Heating and Air Conditioning Co.

The grand jury report said state fair officials pleaded "ignorance and stupidity" in the award of the contracts but insisted there had been no intentional wrongdoing.

"I am definitely gratified that the grand jury found what we at the fair knew all along: that we did nothing dishonest," King said. "We have already instituted a whole new procedure on how things will be run at the 1975 fair, so there is no way in hell that we will have the same problems at this year's fair," which will run from Aug. 8 to Aug. 17.

Although the grand jury cited irregularities, it handed down no indictments.

"The lack of indictments, however, should not be viewed as a grand jury endorsement of the procedure followed in 1974," said the report submitted to Circuit Court Judge William Conway.

"In the absence of sufficient proof of criminality, the grand jury has accepted these witnesses' explanation of stupidity and ignorance. Nevertheless, such stupidity and ignorance should not be winked at any longer," the report said.

The grand jury report cited several state Purchasing Act violations in connection with the award of a plumbing and carpentry contract to Buecker, and a manure removal and maintenance contract to Williams.

Williams billed the state $261,000 for the work but hasn't been paid. Buecker was paid $825,000 for the work, including payments to individual employees which included overtime charges the grand jury found to be "beyond belief."

In both cases, the grand jury said the firms should get a reasonable amount for their work but said the attorney general should seek to revoke the contracts for the full amount the state had been charged.

Since the end of the 1974 fair last August, two state employees have been dismissed for suspected irregularities in contract awards and a fiscal officer has been hired to assist King.

Asked if the two employees who were fired would be rehired since the grand jury refused to indict them, a spokesman for Gov. Daniel Walker said, "A person doesn't have to be charged with a crime to be fired for misconduct in a state position."

The spokesman said there are no plans to rehire them.

The two employees, Paul Giganti of the Department of Registration and Education, and Casimir Bied, a state fair purchasing agent, were dismissed after Walker's chief investigator, Donald Page Moore, turned up evidence which the governor said warranted the dismissals. Walker refused to elaborate on the evidence but said the matter would be turned over to the grand jury.

The grand jury also recommended that state fair officials begin paying more attention to laws governing contract awards.

"The grand jury realizes that this suggestion may seem ridiculously elementary. However, many of the grand jurors have been appalled by the number of witnesses who told the grand jury they did not know what to do and that no one would tell them how to do whatever they should have done."

Howlett says officials owe public information

DECATUR — The operation of a public office deserves public attention more than the public image of the office holder, Michael J. Howlett, Secretary of State, told the Illinois Press Association here Friday.

Howlett was the guest speaker at the association's annual Spring dinner meeting in the Holiday Inn. He said a public official should be as responsible as editors and reporters for keeping the public informed. "Erich Segal, the author of 'Love Story,' made a peculiar statement," said Howlett. "He said the printed word is dying as a means of communication, and that television is replacing it."

"I can't agree. 'Yet, I believe there is too much concentration on the TV image of public officials, as persons. There is not enough attention to the operation of the public office, the day-to-day detail of what is happening."

"A public official cannot succeed in his work without cooperation of the public. It is up to him to help the public understand what he is trying to do."

As Secretary of State since 1973, and as Auditor of Public Accounts for 12 years previously, Howlett made all records in his possession available to the public. He was given the "Goldfish Bowl Award" by the Illinois statehouse correspondents association.

"Reporters, editorial writers and commentators appreciate candor," said Howlett. "They respect direct answers to direct questions, whether or not they agree with the answers. 'If a public officer makes an honest, open decision in a controversial issue, he can always defend it, even if subsequent events prove a different judgment could have been better."

"A mistake will be forgiven if it is corrected after it is proved to be a mistake. What can't be forgiven is an attempt to cover up a mistake."

Howlett said the communications media could help unify the American people by emphasizing what they have in common and de-emphasizing confrontations.

"It is time for reason to enter the arena of conflict," he said, "time to march with traditional American optimism to solve our problems."

"We need to look for the good side of America. Let us take what is good and build upon it something better."

Lottery subscription plan is announced

CHICAGO (AP) — The Playday Club was likened to "subscribing to a magazine" by Illinois Gov. Daniel Walker as he announced the new way to buy lottery tickets at this week's Grand Slam drawing.

Walker said Friday that individuals who participate in the club can buy 50-cent lottery tickets for periods of one year, six months or three months. "It's a good bargain," he said. "The costs are $25 for 52 weeks, $12 for 24 weeks and $6 for 12 weeks."

The winning numbers in the Grand Slam were 777, 0537, 39042, and 048260.

Singer-composer Rod McKuen and Mrs. Lily Wadleigh, who became the first Playday Club member by purchasing the 100 millionth lottery ticket last New Year's Eve, helped pick the numbers.

The Playday Club gives buyers the option of picking their

Ancient, old and timeworn

By MIKE CUNIFF

The football field and facilities at A.C. Bowers Field by Dixon High School could be referred to as ancient, antique, antiquated, obsolete, prehistoric, timeworn, decrepit and aged. The track around A.C. Bowers Field might be described with the same adjectives.

Several leading personalities in the Petunia City are vociferous about the situation. Most, such as DHS Athletic Director Chuck Vail, head varsity football coach Sam Applebaum, or head varsity track coach Bill Lafferty, have a vested interest.

Others are also concerned about the field and facilities which have not been improved for over 30 years. The Dixon High School track team has not been able to run on the track so far this spring and meets originally scheduled at home may have to be switched to Sauk Valley as has been done in the past.

Recently, I talked with Applebaum and his insights into the football field were interesting and enlightening. Following is a summary of the discussion.

"In terms of football, we could start with the field. The lighting facility is antiquated, that's the only way to put it. Those (light) poles were put up in September of 1940; in fact, Bill Lafferty's father helped put them up.

"Now I don't know the life span of wood poles," Applebaum continued, "but we have the worst-lit field of anyone in the (NCIC) conference or anyone we've met while I've been here. It doesn't take an expert to see that.

"The field also needs to be crowned and capped. There are some holes out there that endanger not only the football players but also the participants in physical education who utilize the field when the weather is right.

"In the fall, that field is used seven hours a day by girls physical education classes. In the spring, the track is used by both boys and girls classes. Now some people would say we only have four or five home football games a year, so why bother about upkeep?"

"However, we also have freshman, sophomore and junior varsity games out there," Applebaum stated. "We also have Junior Tackle involved on the field so approximately 50 to 60 games a year are played there.

"Also, girls use the field in the summertime for all-star softball games and other groups use the field on occasion. The field needs to be maintained better than it has been because of all the usage.

"Another thing—which I don't know too much about because I am a coach—but several people have talked to me about the condition of the bleachers. Now, I don't sit in them," added Applebaum, "but I've talked to several Dixon people who have told me they are uncomfortable and in some places downright dangerous.

"The press box facility is poor and antiquated," he continued with a smile. "There's no room inside the facility and that's all that is available.

"What do we need? I don't think the question is so much that we need the new facilities as much as what are we willing to do to get them. The Dixon School Board and the community need to back us. For 35 years the situation has gone along and apparently everyone wants it to go on the same way for 10 or 15 more.

"They don't seem concerned about the standard of quality. In the classroom, the English department does not use outdated books and the community would pay taxes necessary for new books if they were needed. Yet, at the same time, we use facilities that are outdated and nobody says anything about that."

What is the answer? Anyone connected with athletics at Dixon High School knows the situation concerning the football field and track. And yet, priorities seem to be interested more with books and supplies.

Now, I have nothing against books but certainly after 35 years something should be done. Several people have talked to me and stated the only reason they voted for the referendum last year was because they thought the sports department would get some of the additional benefits.

The people who are really being hurt by the lack of facilities at Dixon High School are Dixon High School athletes. It certainly seems funny the kids who go out for sports and sweat and give of themselves are not considered more important than what stature they have.

It's almost like being told, "You're second-rate because you have to use second-rate facilities." It is certainly not a good attitude to have but one that has gotten increasingly apparent in the past couple of years.

How gloomy is the situation? About as dark as A.C. Bowers football field on Friday nights even with the lights on.

The next Dixon High School's Boosters Club meeting will be April 17 at 7:30 p.m. in the DHS cafeteria. If you have a son or daughter in spring sports at DHS or if you are interested in the sports program, drop by for an informative evening. The coaches of the spring sports will be available for questions.

I'm starving for pumpkin pie.

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

The tipoff: Chances are virtually nil that Kareem Abdul-Jabbar will leave the Milwaukee Bucks before his contract runs out (two seasons to go) because despite his announced desire to leave, no team could provide the requisite talent for a trade.

Q. Who did the Baltimore Orioles trade to get first baseman Lee May from the Houston Astros?—Tim Lightfoot, Adrian, Mich.

A. Lee May query also came in from Oscar Campbell of Travis Air Force Base. The Orioles gave up outfielder Enos Cabell and infielder Rob Andrews for 32-year-old first sacker May and outfielder Jay Schlueter, a throw-in. Andrews was regarded as the best infield prospect in the Oriole organization. But May is a long-ball hitter who's averaged 28 homers in his eight major league seasons with the Cincinnati Reds and the Astros. He was also one of the first black athletes to wear a toupee.

Q. In 1964 Lou Brock was traded from the Chicago Cubs to the St. Louis Cardinals. Who was involved in this trade? Also, when did Ernie Banks retire, how many home runs did he have and do you think Ernie should be elected to the Hall of Fame?—Mike Eisenhart, St. Helena, Calif.

Brock, then 25 years old, was traded in June, 1964, along with pitchers Jack Spring and Paul Toth, for pitchers Ernie Broglio and Bobby Shantz and outfielder Doug Clemens. Among them, the four pitchers involved won a total of nine more games in the major leagues. Ernie Banks hit 512 career home runs, more than any shortstop in history and exceeded in the National League only by Henry Aaron and Willie Mays. He'll be eligible for Hall of Fame consideration after the 1976 season. I think he'll make it but not on the first try.

Q. Why isn't there a 24-second clock in high school and college basketball and there is one in the pros?—Roger Vogel-pohl, Roseburg, Ore.

Because pro sports is more concerned with marketing its product. The NBA put in the 24-second clock when deliberate stalls threatened to drive spectators away. The colleges have been concerned with stalls, too, and in the Big Eight there was experimentation with a 30-second clock, the same as used in the Olympic rules. Personally, I favor the 30-second clock for all basketball. It keeps the game moving and yet doesn't insist on a frenetic pace. I think you'll see such a universal rule some day.

Q. Has there ever been a pitcher in baseball history that pitched a nine-inning game and never threw a pitch that was called a ball?—Gerry Gaston, Myrtle Creek, Oregon.

Sure. Frank Merriwell. I can't vouch for all baseball (like extending into the remote hills of North Carolina), but I can't conceive of a pitcher going nine innings without missing the plate once.

Q. How much does it cost to maintain a thoroughbred in training for a racing program the year round?—R.S., Newport, Ky.

The good folks at Keeneland in Kentucky estimate that keeping a thoroughbred on an appropriate standard of living to reap benefits at the track puts his owner out between $10,000 and $15,000 a year. They also add that horses, unlike other athletes, have no option clauses in their contracts and don't jump leagues, and they won't take their owners to arbitration. The average price of a thoroughbred at last year's Keeneland summer sale was $53,489.

Q. I can't agree with your recent statement that the average pro track athlete can hardly get along on his average prize money of $12,000 a year. Where does that leave the rest of us working folks who make that, or less?—Bob G., McKeesport, Pa.

It wasn't my intent to demean the struggling wage earner. A track athlete, because of the itinerant nature of his life, doesn't net that 12 grand and has to supplement his income from another source—they all have other jobs.

Q. I would like to know why the New Orleans Saints traded Tom Dempsey and who did they trade him for?—Steve Silva, Fresno, Calif.

Dempsey, the guy with the stub foot (a birth defect, if you can call it that), is an outspoken type who back in '71 told the Saints management what he thought of their training regimen — Tom isn't built wraithlike. Although he had set the NFL record with a 63-yard boot to defeat Detroit in his '69 rookie year and was better than a 500 booter, the Saints gave him his outright release. He was immediately picked up by the Eagles as a free agent, and has since set their team record with a 54-yarder. He is also the players' team representative.

Q. Being a native of Virginia Peninsula, I am curious as to the current status of Leroy Keyes, former Purdue All-American and runner-up to O.J. Simpson for the Heisman Trophy. Has any other area produced the number of all-pro players as the Peninsula: Norman Sneed, Chris Hanburger, Henry Jordan, Benny McRae, Earl Faison? — Wesley Poindexter, Billings, Mo.

Leroy Keyes was waived by the Kansas City Chiefs, not claimed by any NFL club and released. Leroy, once tabbed by Frank Gifford as a better prospect than O.J., was handicapped both by chronic injuries and the failure of his pro teams to decide where he should play — as a running back, flanker or defensive back. The Eagles tried him first as a runner but a couple of years later had him as their regular safety on defense. Bad knees finally decked him. Those are fine talents from your native Peninsula, but other areas like western Pennsylvania (Namath country) have them, too.

Q. Who has the most wins for coaches in the NFL? George Halas must be first and Paul Brown second. — Jim Bemis, Pleasanton, Calif.

You got Halas in the right notch, with 320 victories in his 40 years as head man of the Bears, but the late Curly Lembeau slips in ahead of Brown as the runner-up, with 231 wins in 33 seasons. Paul's record going into '74 was 185 victories in 22 seasons. One surprise is that the late Vince Lombardi is not among the top 10. Also, Don Shula of Miami has the best winning percentage (77 per cent) of all time.

Devoe is top candidate for Illinois coaching job

CHAMPAIGN (AP) — Athletic Director Cecil Coleman of the University of Illinois today will announce a new basketball coach to succeed departed Gene Bartow.

Coleman called an 11 a.m. press conference for today but refused to indicate who might be his choice.

Bartow, who served a year of a five-year contract at Illinois, left earlier this week to take over the head coaching job at UCLA which was vacated by the retirement of John Wooden.

Rumors were rampant over who might get the Illinois job and a top candidate appeared to be Don Devoe of Virginia Tech.

Devoe, 33, earlier confirmed that he had been contacted about the position. Devoe has a 67-38 record in four years at Virginia Tech.

Also very much in the running were Bartow assistants Leroy Hunt and Tony Yates. Hunt served under Bartow at Memphis State before coming to Illinois and Yates had been an assistant at Cincinnati prior to joining the Bartow staff a year ago.

In addition to several possible prep coaches throughout the state, others believed to be under consideration were Gale Catlett of Cincinnati and Jack Hartman of Kansas State. Both Catlett and Hartman were among candidates for the job when Bartow was selected a year ago to succeed Harv Schmidt.

Once Bartow accepted the UCLA job, Coleman said it would be only a matter of days before Illinois selected a successor. One reason for the urgency to name a new coach is the fact that Wednesday is the date for national letters of intent for prep prospects.

A new coach named Saturday will have several days to recruit top prep stars. Because of NCAA restrictions over recruiting violations during the Schmidt tenure, Illinois has only three basketball scholarships to offer.

Celtics win

BOSTON (AP) — Only 15 seconds were left in the game as Boston Coach Tom Heinsohn pleaded for his team to take a time out.

But John Havlicek, who had the ball, didn't hear him.

However, instead of resulting in disaster, it turned into an important victory for the Celtics.

Eventually, with four seconds remaining, Dave Cowens hit a jump shot from the foul line and the Celtics outlasted the Washington Bullets 95-94 Friday night in a grueling, physical game.

The triumph lifted the Celtics' record to 59-22, the best in the National Basketball Association, with only tonight's game at Philadelphia remaining for them in the regular season.

Washington dropped to 58-22 with two games to play—at home against Atlanta tonight and against New Orleans Sunday afternoon.

If both teams finish the season with the same record, the Celtics would gain an opening round bye in the playoffs and the home court advantage in any playoff series because of their better record within the Eastern Conference.

Friday night's game, the fourth during the season between the clubs (the series wound up 2-2), came down to the closing seconds. After Wes Unseld put the Bullets ahead 94-93 on a layup with 15 seconds to go, the Celtics quickly inbounded the ball and Havlicek moved it swiftly past midcourt.

"I was calling for a time out, and I guess they (The Bullets) figured we were going to call it," said the emotionally drained Heinsohn, indicating that Washington might have relaxed its defense momentarily. That lapse proved costly.

The alert Havlicek, Boston's team captain and game-high scorer with 22 points, spotted Cowens at the foul line and hit him with a perfect pass. Cowens' shot was just as accurate.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Milwaukee downed New York 109-101, Chicago beat New Orleans 111-87, Buffalo dumped Philadelphia 108-97, Golden State whipped Phoenix 128-99, Portland defeated Kansas City-Omaha 116-110 and Seattle upended Los Angeles 111-102.

Bucks 109, Knicks 101

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 12 points to spark a fourth-quarter Milwaukee rally that put a sizable dent in New York's playoff hopes.

Bulls 111, Jazz 87

Norm Van Lier pumped in 32 points as Chicago clinched the Central Division championship.

Braves 108, 76ers 97

Bob McAdoo, the league's Most Valuable Player, netted 37 points for Buffalo.

Warriors 128, Suns 99

Rick Barry scored 19 points in the third quarter as Golden State won easily.

Blazers 116, Kings 110

Geoff Petrie and Sidney Wicks combined for 59 points as Portland posted its 10th straight home victory.

Sonics 111, Lakers 102

Spencer Haywood ran off eight straight points early in the final quarter to put Seattle in command for good.

ABA RESULTS

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — As if the Eastern Division Championship of the American Basketball Association wasn't enough incentive for his team, Kentucky Coach Hubie Brown gave another reason the Colonels had for beating New York 108-99 in a one-game playoff Friday night.

"Before the season, no one picked us to win the division," said Brown, dripping from a post-game victory shower.

"We had five new players and two new coaches and no one thought we could win it all. We talked about that before the game and then we went out and won," Brown added.

Kentucky, paced by Artis Gilmore's 28 points and 33 rebounds, raced out to a 47-29 lead in the second quarter. The Nets closed within three points in the last period but never got any closer.

The victory gave Kentucky only their second divisional title ever and sent them into action Sunday night against Memphis

Flames flicker out

ATLANTA (AP) — No sooner had the New York Rangers clinched a spot in the National Hockey League playoffs than they were talking confidently of their chances of winning the Stanley Cup.

"We're good enough to beat anybody, at any time, anywhere, under any conditions," said Derek Sanderson, who scored the winning goal which gave the Rangers a 3-2 victory over the Atlanta Flames Friday night.

The triumph put both the Rangers and the New York Islanders into the playoffs and eliminated Atlanta, which had been struggling to catch the two New York clubs.

In the night's other NHL game, the Vancouver Canucks defeated the Minnesota North Stars 4-1 to clinch first place in Division 2.

But the New York coach, Emile Francis, was not making any bold predictions.

"I don't know what this club can do," Francis said. "This is the first time we've had them all back from their injuries. It's only in the last week or 10 days that everyone's been back. This is the healthiest we've been since Nov. 15."

Over in the Flames dressing room, the players were subdued and disappointed.

"I've not much to say," Coach Fred Creighton told reporters. "They were the winners, and we were the loser. It was as simple as that. We started off well, then made some mistakes we shouldn't have."

Tom Lysiak put the Flames on the scoreboard at 9:04 of the first period when he pulled his way past two Rangers and beat Ranger goaltender Gilles Villeneuve. Rey Comeau knocked in a rebound later in the period to give Atlanta a

One retires, three are cut

By The Associated Press
Four players were separated from major league baseball teams Friday—but only one wanted to go.

Ron Bryant of the San Francisco Giants announced his retirement while three others were cut—pitchers Claude Osteen of the St. Louis Cardinals and Balor Moore of the Montreal Expos and infielder Bobby Valentine of the California Angels.

The 27-year-old Bryant, a 24-game winner in 1973 who dropped off to a disastrous 3-15 mark last season, told a news conference that he was retiring for personal reasons, family and business.

"It's hard for some people to understand how you can give up a $50,000-a-year job," said Bryant. But he added he had decided that his family was more important than a baseball career.

Bryant has an interest in a restaurant in Flagstaff, Ariz., and is considering going into the ranching business in that area.

In his last appearance with the Giants, Bryant gave up 10 hits and four runs in five innings Wednesday in a spring training game against the California Angels.

Osteen, a 17-year veteran with a 189-179 lifetime record, was placed on waivers by the Cardinals. Osteen enjoyed his greatest days with the Los Angeles Dodgers, including two 20-game seasons, before he was traded to Houston in 1974. The 35-year-old southpaw was shipped to St. Louis last August.

Moore, another left-hander, was sent outright to Montreal's Memphis farm club in the International League. Moore, 24, has been troubled by arm problems and had not pitched this spring until last Thursday, when he worked two scoreless innings against Minnesota.

Valentine, at one time considered a mainstay of the Angels, was sent to Charleston of the International League.

In action on the field, the Cincinnati Reds belted Boston pitchers for 14 hits but needed Ken Griffey's running in the 16th inning to pull out a 1-0 decision over the Red Sox.

Elsewhere in spring training, Pittsburgh edged the New York Yankees 5-4 in 10 innings, Minnesota beat Montreal 7-4, Philadelphia blanked a second Pittsburgh team 4-0, Cleveland topped Oakland 4-3, Milwaukee blasted the Chicago Cubs 12-6, Tulsa of the American Association shaded St. Louis 1-0, San Francisco needed 11 innings to get by Santa Clara University 1-0; Baltimore stopped Atlanta 6-1; the New York Mets whipped Detroit 9-1; Houston trimmed Texas 8-7 and Los Angeles turned back California 9-2.

develop a high degree of recruit officer effectiveness, not only by his field experience but through formal training.

Tryouts for play set

WALNUT — Tryouts for Walnut Community Theatre's "You Can't Take It With You," will be held Monday from 6:30 to 9 p.m. and Tuesday from 4:30 to 6 p.m., in the Walnut High School auditorium.

Anyone interested in working on set, costumes, or make-up should come to the high school during tryouts. Interested persons unable to attend should contact Glen Littlefield, director, at 379-2835.

The Pulitzer prize winning play by George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart, centers around a rather eccentric family living in New York in the 1930's. The story of a family living near Columbia University who managed not only to survive in those terrible days in the depression but to enjoy life to the fullest appealed to 1,000's of people. The barebrained antics of a family living on practically nothing a week provided appeal to an audience escaping hard times in their own lives.
